

VOLUNTEER SPEAKS

Divyesh Shah
- Manager, NVIDIA

"I was introduced to Chaakri khakhra a few years ago in India & since then that's the only khakhra we eat in our family.

They are not just good to taste, but great for your soul too.

The selfless cause & authenticity of organization is what prompted me to volunteer for Chaakri & it has been a wonderful experience. Through the journey, have met folks from all walks of life.

Those who had other khakhra brands before & those who don't know what it means. The common link between them were great reviews & support they gave for women independence, empowerment.

This is a testament to the great flavors, great quality & great cause of Chaakri.

I continue to be encouraged by all love and difference being made in lives of many women & hope to do my part in making Chaakri a household name."
